The Costa Rican Revolution.

We yesterday briefly alluded to the execution of ex-President Mora and General Cañas, by the Government of Costa Rica. It will be remembered that some six months ago, Mora was seized and sent out of the country by the Costa Ricans, and another President elected in his stead. Lately he returned, and with brave old General Cañas, justly styled the Liberator of Central America, attempted to regain the rule of his misguided countrymen. He landed at Puntarenas on the 20th of September, at the head of a body of 150 raw recruits, and entrenched themselves in the town. On the 25th, the place was attacked by the Government forces, numbering 1,500 men, and on the 29th, the latter took the town by storm. We quote from the San Francisco Bulletin's correspondence:

"On that evening, at about eight o'clock, the Government forces opened a heavy fire from their large guns, which was vigorously responded to by Cañas. This lasted without interruption for about an hour, during which time I counted fifty cannon shots, when, under cover of the smoke and noise of the artillery, the Government cavalry made a rush through the surf, flanked the barricades, and were behind it before the Moristas dreamt of the movement. A sharp struggle then ensued, lasting about fifteen minutes, but ending in the complete overthrow of the revolutionary party. You can form some idea of the struggle when I tell you that the Government acknowledge having lost 250 men killed and wounded."

"General Cañas was the last man in the barricade, and loaded and fired the last gun himself; when seeing that the day was lost, he混 unseen among the opposite party, and cheering them on, actually led them into Puntarenas, when watching his chance he darted into a house and stowed himself away. While the fighting was going on at the barricade, a detachment of the Government troops having, through the treachery of a Chilean boatman, got possession of some canoes, crept quietly up the lagoon, and before any one had an idea of such a thing, they sprang ashore and rushed upon the cuartel, taking it by surprise with but little resistance. Mora having barely time to escape by a back window. Balls by this time were flying about in all directions, no where was one safe, for the houses being built of wood the balls whizzed through them like pasteboard. Meanwhile the troops came rushing in like so many devils from the barricade, and an indiscriminate slaughter commenced. Eleven Moristas were at once taken out and shot, while a good many others were taken on the wing as they were rushing to and fro. Meanwhile, houses were being broken into and rifled, and foreign colors torn down and trampled upon. Both the English and American flags were thus treated, and the owners of the houses over which the flags waved were happy to escape by the back door."

President Mora was captured the next day. When the news of the capture reached General Cañas, he offered to deliver himself up for execution, if Mora's life was spared. The Government officers consented, and Cañas came into the enemy's camp to ransom the life of his friend by laying down his own. With their accustomed treachery, the Costa Ricans, two hours after gaining possession of the General, led Mora and one of his Colonels out, and shot them both:

"They were not allowed to say anything, but stood side by side; Mora asking the privilege of being shot thus, and also begging that they would aim at his heart. They fell side by side; on Mora evincing signs of life, an officer shot him through the head with his revolver.

"Things soon quieted down, and we had hoped the butchery was over—when, on Tuesday, it was announced that Gen. Cañas was to be shot, and at 9 o'clock, A. M., on the 2d, the good old General was led out to execution. He was perfectly cool, and smoked his cigar until he fell, pierced with a dozen balls.

"The bodies of Cañas and Mora were buried in the sand on the beach, without coffins—in the same clothes in which they were shot. Gen. Cañas, who was almost worshipped by the people of Puntarenas, was shot at the foot of the monument, erected in the Plaza to commemorate his services to Costa Rica. On the day he fell the whole town was in tears. People sobbed in the streets as if a most terrible calamity had befallen them. The soldiers at first refused to fire at their old commander, but were finally forced by blows to do so."

By the death of their chiefs, the revolutionists have been completely cowed, and matters at latest dates were quieting down.

Esquimalt Election.

The resignation of Capt. Cooper leaves the representation of Esquimalt and Metchosin counties vacant. Within a few days an election will occur to fill his place. We, therefore, ask Reformers to be up and doing, and not allow the Obstructives to gain a march upon them. We had ample proof at the Esquimalt Town election of the unprincipled conduct of the Government clique. To intimidation and undue influence they are not strangers; and it is not likely that such a rotten concern can very speedily improve. Being warned by the past, Reformers have but one duty to do in order to purify the Augean Stable, that is to muster in strong numbers and fight every foot of the ground. Numerically, the Obstructives are in a minority in the country. They are in a minority in the Esquimalt district, and they know it. Their only hope of success is in palming off some namby-pamby creature of their own on the electors. Some needy mendicant, too proud to beg openly, or take board and lodgings in a pauper's asylum; but who, tick-splitter-like, will sell himself for a consideration. Such are the only men who can be found to act as the champions of the Obstructives in Esquimalt district. For after the disclosures of the present week, no man of honor would ally himself with such time-serving statesmen.

The duty of Reformers is a plain one. They should select their man, and run him; and run him as the exponent of reform principles. No bargains should be made, no compromise; but a firm determination to stand or fall by the righteous principles they have espoused. If such a course is adopted, victory will perch on the reform banner; and its moral influence will carry terror into the enemy's camp. The only men whom we have heard named as likely to be candidates, are Dr. Trimble and Barrister Ring. What the latter gentleman has done to recommend him to any constituency, we do not know; and we are certain no one else does. He has never openly aided reform or progressive principles. He may be liberal, but he has never shown his hand. Ample opportunity has been allowed him; yet he has never done it. We want no such men. Those whom the Reformers should support, should be men who have openly opposed the abuses of the country, and exerted themselves to bring about a better state of things. But where was Mr. Ring at the general election? Where at the Esquimalt election? Anywhere but shoulder to shoulder with the Reform party. Dr. Trimble, on the contrary, has been a moderate but consistent Reformer. At the general election, and at the Esquimalt town election, he was always found on duty. There was no skulking or hiding from the enemy's shot. He asserted his principles, and fought bravely to maintain them. Such men are worth a hundred of your Rings, who are neither on one side or the other till they get their price, and even then, like the Irishman's flea, when you put your finger on it it is not there. We are told that Mr. Ring is the protege of Mr. Dallas. If so, that is sufficient. Reformers of that stripe should be put on probation, and when they prove that they possess the ring of the true metal, they will bear the stamp of Reform.

THE PROSPECTS TO-NIGHT.—Those among us who anticipate a repetition of the scenes of last Saturday night at the theatre this evening, will, we think, be disappointed—a large police force has been ordered to be on hand in case of a riot, and there seems to be a general disposition on the part of the blacks to avoid a difficulty—although quite a number of strange colored men were observed moving about town yesterday. Whatever may have been the designs of the negro ringleaders at first, we believe they have too much sense to court another fight; since they have been given to understand that such a course can in no wise tend to benefit them. All due precautions, on the part of the police, however, should be taken.

OPENING DAY.—N. Moore & Co.'s elegant new building, on Yates street, will be opened for business, on Monday next, with an entirely new stock of goods. The building is the finest north of San Francisco.

THE "CARIBOO" COUNTRY.—Many suppose that the name applied to this lately discovered auriferous region, lying to the northeast of Fort Alexander, and taking in the North and South Forks of the same stream, is of Indian origin. This is wrong. The name "Cariboo" is derived from a species of reindeer abounding in that section. They are much larger than an elk, and carry immense antlers. In color they resemble a deer; but are less symmetrically formed. A full-sized cariboo will weigh, on the foot, from 600 to 600 pounds, although about 400 pounds is the average. The animal has enormous feet, that spread as they touch the ground, and leave a large track behind them. They experience no difficulty in running over the snow; their pedal extremities answering all the purposes of snowshoes, and preventing them from sinking. The cariboo is said to have been numerous in Canada West some years since, but latterly, as civilization has advanced, have become very scarce. It was from the killing of one of these animals on the North Fork of Quesnelle River, by some Canadian miners, early in the summer, that the name was first applied to that section, and it will no doubt be adopted by the government in case an official map is ever issued.

YALE ENTERPRISE.—The Yale folk are exemplars of enterprise and progress. Not only have they now a first-class steamboat of their own, but they have just completed the construction of a water-course along the crown of the hill that runs at the back of, and parallel with, the town; from which each house has a pipe leading in water. The course runs at an elevation sufficiently high to command the town perfectly in case of fire, so that there will not be any need, of a fire-engine, should such a calamity occur; for a hose in connection with the pipe enables every citizen to sleep without apprehension. This constant water-supply also conduces to health, comfort and cleanliness. Would it not be well, now that public companies are the order of the day, if the citizens of Victoria were to take a leaf out of the Yale book, and bring in a supply of that indispensable element? Such a project would pay even better than a Gas Company.

CAPT. E. H. KING.—We yesterday visited Capt. King at the city prison. We found him walking about in the jail-yard, looking quite pale and haggard, but seemingly in good spirits! He complains bitterly of the injustice of his sentence, and thinks the party who first recommended the fracs should have been sent to keep him company. In this opinion he is not alone! We examined his cell, which is just opposite to those occupied by Messrs. Hawkhurst and Birney, and found it clean, but very damp, and forbiddingly suggestive of rheumatism. The prisoner sleeps upon a mattress (brought from his own house), spread on the floor. The cell is about six feet long by four wide, and is lighted by a heavily-barred window, which looks out upon a portion of the yard. Capt. K. informs us that he is locked up fourteen hours out of the twenty-four, and is not permitted to leave his cell until the hour arrives for the felons to breakfast. During the day, however, he is allowed to walkabout the yard, or sit in the kitchen, and read or write.

THE PUBLIC MEETING.—The meeting at the Colonial Theatre last evening was largely attended. The merits of the Trades' License Act, the Registration Bill, and the Incorporation Bill, were freely canvassed by the gentlemen who addressed the assemblage; and the general feeling seemed to be that they were measures, originating with an unjust and illiberal government, altogether unsuited to the wants of the colony. Remarks were made by Messrs. Shanks, Young, Caff, Hick, DeCosmo, and others, and the speakers loudly applauded! At about 10 o'clock Mr. Shanks took the stand for a third time, and indulged in some personal and indecent remarks in regard to the Governor, which so disgusted the audience that a great portion immediately left the room. Major Foster, M. P. P., reproved Mr. Shanks for his vulgarity in scathing terms, and the latter afterwards returned to the stand and apologized to the few people left for previous unbecoming remarks.

THE "WEEKLY COLONIST."—The weekly edition of the BRITISH COLONIST will be issued from the press at 8 o'clock this morning. It will contain six pages, or thirty columns, of reading matter of interest to parties both here and abroad. Copies may be obtained at the book and news depots, and at the publication office of the COLONIST.

CLEANED UP.—The residents of Yates street have caused the mud in front of their premises to be hoed into heaps from the centre of the thoroughfare. It now remains to be carted away, or the first rain storm will send it back to its old quarters.

THE STEAMER.—The steamer Brother Jonathan is advertised to leave for San Francisco at 2 o'clock, this P. M.

France and Sardinia.

The displeasure with which France would view the invasion of Roman territory by Piedmont, has been foreshadowed for some time by the Paris journals. The recall of the French Ambassador from Turin is thus officially announced in the Moniteur of the 14th September:

In presence of the facts which have just been accomplished in Italy, the Emperor has resolved that his Minister shall immediately quit Turin. A Secretary will remain there to conduct the business of the Legation.

The Paris Patrie, which declares itself authorised to contradict the report that Piedmont was secretly encouraged by France to invade the Roman States, says:

When Piedmont abandoned the project of a confederation laid down in principles at Villafranca, and commenced a system of annexations, she was disapproved of by France. It was against the advice of France that Piedmont annexed Tuscany and the Romagna: it was against her counsels and in spite of her protests that she now invades the Roman States. This invasion, justly considered in Europe as a violation of the law of nations, remains altogether at the door of the State which has allowed itself to do such an act. The Government of the Emperor, after having endeavored in vain to prevent it, disapproves of it openly, and the arms of France will continue to protect, at Rome, the person and authority of the Sovereign Pontiff.

In some quarters, it was believed that the withdrawal of the French Minister from Turin was not a rupture, but merely a diplomatic protest. Thus, the London Globe, in a leader on the Moniteur's announcement, remarks that the Emperor, after having a long conversation with M. Cavour at Nice, embarked for Corsica, carrying out his design for visiting Algeria. Had a serious rupture with Piedmont been imminent, it is not probable that he would have quitted the scene. Nothing had yet been done to prevent the realization of the Emperor's most imminent thoughts. The Globe, after commenting upon recent events in Italy, says it has good grounds for believing that the withdrawal of M. de Talleyrand is nothing more than a diplomatic protest—an indication that the Emperor washes his hands of the affair and fixes upon the intervention public mark of disapproval; and, considering his position as protector of the Pope, it is not easy to see what other course he could have taken.

COLONIAL THEATRE.—This evening "Richelieu" and the "Rough Diamond," will be played—one of the finest bills yet offered to the Victoria public. We expect to see a full house.

NO QUORUM.—Yesterday there was not a quorum of members present at the House of Assembly.

There was not a single case before the police magistrate yesterday.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Two Children Cured of Scrofula.—Cincinnati, March 4, 1860.—Messrs. A. L. Scovill & Co.—Dear Sirs:—This is to certify that my two children have been afflicted with SCROFULOUS ULCERS. I tried your Blood and Liver Syrup, which cured them in a remarkably short time. My wife has been afflicted for many years with the most troublesome disease—Tetter and Rheumatism—and has used many remedies, which have failed to cure her; this remedy has made a radical cure. If any one wants a medicine for purifying the blood, they will find the above named among the best now in use.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH.

No medicine has ever achieved a higher reputation. In every section of the country its merits are known and fully acknowledged. The leading physicians in the country have expressed their unanimous approval of this preparation, as uniting in the best qualities of a tonic and invigorator, without kindling an appetite for alcoholic liquors. In cases of digestive disorders, which all unaccustomed persons are frequently exposed to, as the practice cannot be at all times here, the Bitters will be found to be the safest corrective and most reliable remedy yet discovered. Diarrhea, Dysentery, and the various bilious and intermittent fevers all yield to the curative properties of this medicine. No person should be without the Bitters a single day.

The Prince of Wales' Reception in New York--The Grand Ball, etc.

The St. Louis correspondent of the San Francisco Alta, under date of October 17th, gives a very interesting account of the reception of the Prince of Wales in New York city. As the account is very interesting, and as very few of the papers containing it were brought by the Jonathan, we copy it entire:

The last Pony Express carried you a brief account of the reception of the Prince of Wales in New York city. The New York papers have since come to hand, and are filled with accounts of that event. The Herald of the 12th had twenty-one columns of the reception news; the Tribune had five, the Times ten, and the World just seven. Of this amount of reading matter, about two-thirds is trash, and the balance probably rests on a solid foundation. The reception was heralded in advance, as intended to transcend anything of the kind that has ever taken place on the continent; but after all the fuss and parade, it appears to have been woefully mismanaged. It had been announced that the Prince would land at 1 o'clock, and, as early as 7 A.M., crowds commenced assembling on Broadway. The Prince did not land till near 2 o'clock. The congratulations on Battery were very brief. The following dialogue is reported:

Mayor Wood—Your Royal Highness:

As Chief Magistrate of the city, I welcome you here, and believe that in so doing I represent this entire population, without exception.

The Prince of WALES—It affords me very great pleasure to accept the welcome, and I have no doubt it will be worthy of the great city of New York.

The consequence then started, and soon came to a standstill in the lower part of Broadway, for so badly had the police attended to their duties, that the thoroughfare was blocked up by a mass of humanity. Two hours after the landing the Prince reached the City Hall, where another tedious delay occurred, followed by another review. This consumed all the time until about 5 o'clock. The consequence was, that darkness fell upon the scene, and all the thousands between the Park and the Fifth Avenue Hotel could not distinguish between Mayor Wood and the Prince, as the carriage proceeded up Broadway.

Gen. Sandford, after giving the orders for the troops to march stationed himself on horseback near the right of the platform. The Prince received the honor of a marching salute, and to every officer, as each passed, he touched his hat. Gen. Sandford, speaking to Gen. Bruce, presently said, "Tell the Prince only to salute colors, and not every officer?" Gen. Bruce spoke to the Prince; then answered Gen. Bruce, saying that the Prince felt as if he could do no less than return the salute of the officers, but that if Gen. Sandford wished it, he would salute only the colors of each regiment. "Oh, just as he likes," replied Gen. Sandford, and the Prince continued to return each salutation.

The drum-majors of some of the bands took especial pains to perform their liveliest antics just as they came under the eye of the distinguished visitors. The Prince smiled repeatedly at their exhibitions. When the advancing drums of the National Guard were heard, "Is that the Seventh Regiment?" inquired Gen. Bruce. "Yes," answered Gen. Sandford. "I observed their line on the Battery," said Gen. Bruce. "It was as good as anything I ever saw." "You must remember," remarked Gen. Sandford, at another time, "that these are all citizens engaged in their regular occupations." The Mayor, as the various regiments passed, told the Prince of their characteristics. The Duke of Newcastle said the reception was more than gratifying: it was magnificent. The authorities deserved great credit, but the people more. He said that there was an admirable Police Force in New York, but in cities of the West, where they had no police, the people behaved exceedingly well. They had been treated with kindness ever since they crossed the border.

On the 12th, the reception being on the 11th, the Prince, according to programme, visited the New York University this morning, and received an address from Chancellor Ferris, and another from Professor Morse. He visited the Astor Library, Cooper Institute, and Free Academy, where the scholars all arose on his entrance and remained standing during the visit. After a drive to Central Park, he dined with Mayor Wood, and thence proceeded to High Bridge, returned in season for the ball.

FRANCIS BARK GLIMPSE, Oct. 8, 1860.

FRIEND SUTTON:—* * * * * I am

at present engaged in bringing in a ditch on the bar, which I expect we will have completed about the first of April. About this place I think there will be very lively times next season. I think the place will excel Hill's Bar in its palmiest days. This bar will last for years. It is capable of accommodating 250 miners. At present there are but few men left, most of the claim-holders having recorded their claims and gone below to winter. The weather here at present is very fine although we have an intimation every morning that winter is approaching.

Capt. Travallie arrived here yesterday from the Cariboo diggings. He gives a pretty good account of them. Most of the miners are doing well there. We were honored lately with a visit from Commissioner Nind. He is much of a gentleman and has given general satisfaction to the miners. Chief Justice Begbie honored us with his presence here a short time ago; but I believe did not transact any official business.

Tell all the boys that are down below, if they are not doing anything next season, they had better come this way and we will find them something to occupy their time. I have written this by the light of a camp fire, and I hope you will excuse the writing. I will write to you again when I can get some more paper—this being the only piece in camp.

Yours, truly,

EDW. J. CAMPBELL.

DR. ADOLPHUS'

ANTI-RHEUMATIC CORDIAL

— AND —

Health Restorative

IS THE MOST VALUABLE AND UN-

surpassed remedy for Rheumatism and Gout to be found in the world, or known at present. The discovery of the above medicine does claim its infallibility in all cases of Rheumatism and Gout—when used according to direction—and does offer a reward of five thousand dollars to any individual who can supersede it, and make it equally valuable. The Doctor is enabled to give the above reward on account of his having used the above medicine for ten years in his practice, and has never known it to fail in the cure of the most protracted cases of Rheumatism and Gout, and without all known remedies to the profession. Doctor Adolphus is known and rightly celebrated throughout the State, for his cures in Rheumatism, Gout and Chronic Diseases, and has only to the continued urgent efforts of his patients, and through the desire to help them who are not enabled to see him personally, or to spend a fortune, given up this great ease, which they have conducted in the pursuit of their daily walk, only this has been able to persuade the Doctor to give the above medicine to the public, so that all who are similarly afflicted.

This medicine will be superior to any in existence, and will remove pimples, boils and eruptions from the skin—cures rheumatism and pains of all kinds. All who can afford should use it, as it tends to give them strength and prolong life.
